BY ATTENDING OUR WORKSHOP, YOU WILL BE ABLE TO:

- Provide an overview of verbal and emotional de-escalation
- Name 3 strategies for de-escalating tense situations
- Summarize the basic tenets of improv and how it can lead to enhanced communication
- Describe the importance of creating safe spaces to promote trust and safety
- Define cultural humility and how this might be a tool in emotional de-escalation.

Helping professionals serve on the front lines in every practice setting, dedicating themselves to assisting others in the most challenging and uncertain circumstances. It is essential that clinicians acquire the skills and techniques necessary to de-escalate tense situations. To begin our day, Janet Richmond, LICSW, will provide an overview of verbal and emotional de-escalation, followed by a series of case scenarios to highlight examples of utilizing these skills and why they are important. Medical ethicist, Jason Lesandrini, MA, FACHE, HEC-C, LPEC, PhD(c), will then summarize conflict resolution and improv strategies that lead to enhanced communication, and Kim Wilson, LPC, will examine the importance of creating safe spaces to promote trust and safety in places that we practice. To round out this full day of impactful learning, Linda Ellis, MEd, MDiv, LPC, will provide considerations on cultural humility and underscore the importance of continuous critical self-reflection, empathy, and understanding as we endeavor to enhance our clinical skill set to support our clients and respect their dignity during conflict.

Kim Wilson, LPC, Owner and Founder of the Kim Wilson Experience

Kim Wilson is a licensed professional counselor and owner of Kim Wilson Experience, LLC. She has worked in the mental health field since 2006. Her work as both an advocate and counselor for families in the communities she serves is a testament to her commitment to emotional health and wellness. Kim Wilson uses her education in human behavior to facilitate dynamic workshops and seminars on effective communication, work life balance, stress management and other customized talks. She is also the creator of “Amazing Relationships with Kim Wilson” a podcast which is featured in iTunes, Stitcher and Google Music.

Linda Ellis, MEd, MDiv, LPC

For 25 years, Linda Ellis led organizations serving Georgia’s LGBTQ community. Through that work, she helped to develop a strong network of healthcare and service providers committed to providing culturally sensitive care, focused on increasing access to supportive care for those at the margins of the community, including LGBTQ seniors and those individuals who are under or uninsured. Today, Linda is shifting her focus more toward individual experiences, and is building a private psychotherapy practice through which she looks forward to accompanying others on their own journeys. Linda has Master degrees in both theology and family therapy. She lives in Atlanta’s East Lake neighborhood, and is grateful for the chance to provide an occasional landing spot for her two young adult sons.
